Nullagine Primary School Strategic Plan 2020 - 2024

Our People, Our School

Nullagine is an isolated town on the edge of the Great Sandy Desert located 200 km north of Newman and 300 km south east of Port Hedland. The town's population is approximately 150. The majority of the people in town are Aboriginal and are members of the Irrungadji Community. Access roads are partly unsealed and sealed and are often impassable during the wet season and also if there is a wet winter.

100% of our students, who attend school, are Indigenous. The majority of these children live at the Irrungadji Community adjoining the Nullagine town site. For these students, English is a second, third or fourth language. The main Aboriginal languages spoken are Martuwangka, Manyilyjarra, Kartujarra, and Warnman.

The majority of the students speak Language at home and are learning Standard Australian English as a second or third language. Students participate in a Language class where they learn the intricacies of their home Language which benefits the learning of another language, taught by a fully qualified Language teacher. While formal language lessons are taught once per week, the language is embedded in daily practices such as assemblies.

Students have access to services from agencies throughout the Pilbara such as Allied Health, Paediatric Services, Child and Adolescent Mental Health Services (CAMHS), School Health Nurses, EarBus and the School Dental Program. There is also a nursing clinic located in the community that collaborates with the school regularly.

Our communities play an active part in school life at Nullagine Primary School ensuring that the students are provided with the finest, most culturally appropriate learning environment.
